For me, Vow of Obligation was the best of the three in this trilogy. Tawny Baxter is naive and she stupidly believes a co-worker's lies and gets caught trying to make off with a laptop. Navarre catches her, and he requires that stay with him for two weeks because he's unsure of whether she accessed sensitive information and he's in need of a pretend relationship.

Obligation

It was likely that Julie had deliberately targeted her once she realised that Tawny would be the new maid in charge of Navarre Cazier's usual suite. Having befriended Tawny and put her under obligation by helping her to move into her bedsit, Julie had then conned the younger woman into trying to take Navarre's laptop.
