Curious Pursuits Occasional Writing

Curious Pursuits is a collection of personal essays, book reviews and articles from the fierce, ingenious mind of Margaret Atwood, ranging from 1970 to the present. Atwood remembers moving to London as a starry-eyed teenager in 1964 and her first attempts at gardening; she discusses feminist utopias in fiction, and writes moving odes on beloved classics like Anne of Green Gables.

Curious Pursuits: Occasional Writing: Amazon.co.uk: Atwood ...

Curious Pursuits is a collection of some of Atwood's shorter non-fiction writing, including some forty seven separate pieces — reviews, speeches, essays and obituaries — which were written between 1970 and 2005. Some of the pieces were about books which I had already read, while others concerned people I had never heard of before, but I found all of them interesting, some of them compassionate, and some of them outright hilarious.

Curious Pursuits is in her own words, "a grab-bag of occasional pieces written for specific occasions." She began writing occasional pieces in the 1950's when she was 16. This collection contains pieces from the 80's onwards and is a treasure trove. You can dip in and out of it as you choose but each piece has its own merits.
