Making Sense collects together a group of major and minor characters, some real, some imaginary, who set out to make sense of life together by opening the social media gate between Reality and Fantasy. A survey of Martin Stanton's own thinking and feeling on his original psychoanalytic odyssey across becalmed seas, random conversations with a therapeutic parrot, stranded for a while with Socrates on the black sandy beach of Paradise, he explores how a bezoar stone, a caddis insect, and a ...

The sixth mode, redundantly labeled mental consciousness, refers to thinking, dreaming, remembering or every other human experience that is not directly transmitting information from the sense receptors in the present moment. It uses the entire brain as an organ of perception and any prior or present data as an object of awareness.

September 10, 2019. In this episode of the Making Sense podcast, Sam Harris speaks with Barbara Tversky about how our senses of space and motion underlie our capacity for thought. They discuss the evolution of mind prior to language, the importance of imitation and gesture, the sensory and motor homunculi, the information communicated by motion, the role of “mirror neurons,” sense of direction, natural and unnatural categories, cognitive trade-offs, and other topics.

About Making Sense of Mind-Game Films.
Mind-game films and other complex narratives have been a prominent phenomenon of the cinematic landscape during the period 1990-2010, when films like The Sixth Sense, Memento, Fight Club and Source Code became critical and commercial successes, often acquiring a cult status with audiences. With their multiple story lines, unreliable narrators, ambiguous twist endings, and paradoxical worlds, these films challenge traditional ways of narrative ...

By a 'Theory of Mind', we mean the process

(es) by which most healthy human adults (1) attribute unobservable mental states to others (and under certain circumstances, to the self, [cf. Bem, 1967, Happe, 2003]), and (2) integrate these attributed states into a single coherent model (Gopnik & Meltzoff, 1997) that can be used to explain and predict the target's behaviour and experiences.

In Making Sense, Simon Penny proposes that internalist conceptions of cognition have minimal purchase on embodied cognitive practices. Much of the cognition involved in arts practices remains invisible under such a paradigm. Penny argues that the mind-body dualism of Western humanist philosophy is inadequate for addressing performative practices.
