As a teacher of guided reading, it's important that you have a consistent system for leveling your books. That's because one essential of guided reading is leveled texts. You need a system for analyzing texts and organizing them for teaching your small groups. My favorite leveling system is the Fountas & Pinnell text level gradient - also called the guided reading levels. Let's look at how these levels correspond to different grade levels in K-3.

An overview of the guided reading levels - The Measured Mom
PreK-K, 1-2, 3-5, 6-8. From. Guided reading is an instructional approach that involves a teacher working with a small group of students who demonstrate similar reading behaviors and can read similar levels of texts. The text is easy enough for students to read with your skillful support; it offers challenges and opportunities for problem solving, but is easy enough for students to read with some fluency.

Since guided reading helps students read increasingly challenging texts, guided reading instruction provides students the reading behaviors they need as they encounter the various characteristics of each level. Instructional-leveled text is a bit challenging, and requires students to use strategies as they read.

If your child's school levels books using Fountas and Pinnell, Reading A-Z, Scholastic Books, or Guided Reading Levels, then books will be leveled using a letter system. While it would be nice, these leveling systems do not always correlate. A book that is a Reading A-Z Level P, is not always a Level P using the Guided Reading Levels.

The goal of guided reading is to bring the child to the level of complex texts appropriate for the grade, in doing so, teaching must begin with where the child is able to engage with some success, so that there is a point of contact, thereby engaging the child's development of a self-extending system for processing texts.
